COOKIE POLICY

This page summarises the information concerning the cookie use of our website (https://inno-comp.hu). We hereby inform you that our website does not store or collect personal data.

Upon visiting our website or contacting us, please review our privacy statement as well (link).

What are cookies?

When you visit a website, most sites use cookies to provide better services; these are such practical technologies that collect and use information to facilitate the navigation on the webpage. Cookies are short text files downloaded to the hard disk of your computer upon visiting the website. Cookies send data to our company during your visit.

What purposes are cookies used for?

We use cookies to recognise if you are a returning or a new visitor to our website, and they help improve the online browsing experience.

Consent to the use of cookies on the webpage

Upon visiting our webpage, a pop-up is displayed to inform you that cookies will be placed on your hard drive.

A briefly appearing message gives you information about our cookie policy. By clicking the "I agree" button you accept the use of cookies described in the cookie policy.

If you do not want us to place cookies on your computer, please leave our website immediately.

Types of applied cookies and their use

Our company uses four types of cookies; however, these are not suitable for profiling and are used only to improve user experience.

Alternative ways to control, block or delete cookies

If you do not wish to receive cookies at all (including those necessary for making the website accessible for you), you can adjust your browser settings to block them. Banning the cookies we use may affect your whole browsing experience. You may not be able to visit certain parts of our website.

If you use different devices to view the website (e.g. computer, smartphone, tablet, etc.) you need to make sure that each browser on each device is adjusted correctly and in accordance with your cookie preferences.
